A

It was Emily's 10th birthday. She was 10 years old. She was so happy. "I'm so happy," she said. "I'm finally 10. Ten is two numbers. Ten is an adult number. Ten is a grown-up number. I'm an adult now. I'm a grown-up. I used to be nine. Nine is a kid number. Nine is for kids. I'm not a kid any more." Her sister Irene said, "Of course you're still a kid. Teenagers are kids. You're not even a teenager yet. You're in the fifth grade. The fifth grade is for kids. The twelfth grade is for kids too. When you are 18, you will be in the twelfth grade. You will be a kid. You will be a kid for eight more years." Emily said, "No, you're a kid. You're only seven. Seven is a kid." Irene said she wasn't seven. She said she was seven and a half.

26. How old is Emily?

Hobbies can be anything. They let you be creative and try all kinds of new things. But how to pick a hobby?

Think back to what you loved as a kid.

Did you like to ride bikes with friends? Did you love to paint or draw? Think about what got you excited as a kid and what you could spend hours doing. If you rode bikes, why not get a new bike and go around neighbourhood? If you loved drawing, take a class at an art museum.

Look at what interests you.

Do you enjoy reading books? Maybe you want to try your hand at writing them. Do you like a cold beer at the end of the day? Maybe your hobby could be trying to make beer at home. Turn what you love into a hobby.

Look into your skills.

Some hobbies need skills. If you have little patience, you may not enjoy hand-sewing (手工缝纫). But if you love repairing and building things, you can have a hobby like working on old radios or building furniture.

Pay attention to what excites you.

What you often talk about can show what you love most. Think about the topics you always talk about. Ask your friends what you talk about most. Then you can decide how to turn it into a hobby.

31. What is the advantage of having hobbies?
- A. Making you smart.
 - B. Letting you try new things.

- A. Making beer at home.
 - B. Repairing old radios.
 - C. Writing stories.
 - D. Studying at an art museum.
33. How can you find out what excites you?
- A. Ask others what you talk about most.
 - B. Think about what you loved as a kid.
 - C. Look at what you are good at.
 - D. Learn to try many new things.

34. From the passage, we can learn that _____.
 A. the thing you talk least with your friend can be your hobby
 B. the thing you loved to do as a kid can't be kept as a hobby
 C. if you are uninterested in something, try to make it your hobby
 D. if you are good at something, you can pick it as a hobby
35. What does the passage mainly talk about?
 A. How to try new things at home. B. How to find a hobby.
 C. How to excite a kid. D. How to write books.

C

Drones (无人机) can do a lot of things for us, taking photos, delivering things from packages to pizzas to beer and following wild animals. But they have other uses now.

Can you believe it? Drones can serve people coffee. US company IBM has made this kind of drone. It can deliver coffee to sleepy people. The drone can know when to bring a cup of coffee by studying a person's data. Then, the drone will fly to the person. There is a special device (设备) under the drone. It helps the drone to give people coffee. The drone can also learn about someone's coffee-drinking habits and predict when someone needs their next cup of coffee.

Drones can also save lives. One company in Africa use drones to deliver medicine and blood fast and save many people's lives. The drones are able to fly at speeds of up to 60 mph and when they are within a minute of the destination (目的地), the doctors receive a text and wait nearby. The drones drops off the package and then returns to its home.

A 92-year-old hunter in Virginia was lost and had to spend a night in the woods. The police searched for him all night but failed to find him. Luckily, the drone tracked him down in 20 minutes. Also, drones helped the firefighters know about the fire in the wildfire fight.
